

ST. EDMUND'S

I have little to add to last year's report for the building itself, but Tom and Margaret King are doing a wonderful job in caring for the Garden of Remembrance area, and we are slowly getting on top of the invasive alliums which have been spreading over the snowdrops.

In terms of the graveyards, I have completely redrawn the plans, which are kept on the windowsill in the vestry. We are starting to use the available burial spaces in the older churchyard and three more spaces in the western graveyard have been identified following an exploratory dig by Marcus Leather.
